13. Teaching methods adopted to improve student learning	The teaching methods adopted by the department are based on the needs of the learners i.e. students. Since the student is the participant in the learning process and is the major stakeholder, therefore the department ensures to incorporate those teaching methods and techniques which would enhance the learning process. The students enrolled in the college, are mainly from rural areas and have a weak educational background. Therefore the department engages itself and the student in the learning process by adopting various methods like –classroom lectures for the clarity of the concepts. Group discussions, debates, essay writing activities, quiz etc. are carried out all through the year, so that oral and writing skills of the students are improved and the learning becomes more interactive, consequently interesting.
